

Curbside E-waste Recycling Program

In July Colorado joined a growing number of states in banning electronic waste from landfills. Senate Bill 12-133 ban of landfill disposal of electronic waste is intended to protect against the dumping of hazardous waste, and stimulate the local economy through job creation.

Vail Honeywagon, is diversifying operations to meet the increased demand for electronic recycling. Owner Matt Donovan explained the company's expansion, "Vail Honeywagon wants to provide our customers with a comprehensive, environmentally responsible solution to the waste they generate. By adding curbside E-Waste collection as a service, the hassle of waiting for periodic collection events is eliminated. " To make it more accessible and convenient for Eagle residents to recycle electronic waste, Vail Honeywagon is now offering residential and business pickup services. Simply place the E-waste next to your trash can on collection day. If it is a large/heavy item please call us to make special arrangements.

All the material collected by Vail Honeywagon will be recycled by Blue Star Recyclers, a Colorado non-profit that creates jobs for people with autism and cognitive disabilities through the disassembly of the electronic waste. As Vail Honeywagon grows and is successful in its collection efforts, Blue Star Recyclers is committed to sharing its model, by expanding to employ individuals with disabilities in Eagle County.

Blue Star Recyclers operates according to the highest industry standards; The company is BAN e-Stewards, R2, and ISO 14001:2004 certified.
